GCHS may get resource officer

By Larry Ingram
Correspondent

High school students may need to walk no further than down the hall to visit with a police officer this year.

At a school board meeting Tuesday night, Granite City Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen presented a plan for implementing the School Resource Officer Program on the GCHS campus.

Ruebhausen sees it as a proactive measure to enhance safety.

"The officer is not there as a disciplinarian and not there to dictate policy," said Ruebhausen. "The number one objective is to protect students from outside influences."

Ruebhausen said an SRO in the high school would be an extension of the principal or assistant principal's office and could even be in plain clothes instead of the regular police uniform. The SRO would work on conflict resolution as a deterrent to violence.

School board president Jim Noth asked if the department had the type of person who could work with students.

Ruebhausen recommended Phil Popmarkoff as a first choice because Popmarkoff has established himself as a Drug Abuse Resistance Education officer.

"Some of the kids he had in sixth grade are

Case resurfaces here

Lawsuit for raid was dismissed in U.S. court

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A lawsuit for a 1996 police raid in Pontoon Beach has worked its way back to Madison County.

After being dismissed in U.S. court, the case was refilled earlier this summer in St. Clair County and transferred this week to Madison County.

According to court records, the case was ordered transferred to Madison County Aug. 13. It was received by the Madison County Circuit Clerk's office Tuesday.

The state suit was originally filed June 2 in St. Clair County. Defendants in the suit are Pontoon Beach; Police Chief Michael Crouch; then-Detective Rick Hays; Pontoon Beach officers Dan McKinney, Chris Modrusic and Richard Shardan; Madison County; and Deputy Sheriff Kelly Hodges.

Plaintiffs in the case are Tarkus Dillard; Vickie Blakeley; Blakeley's two children, Elysha Brooks and Tarlesha Dillard; Tamalisa Barber, who was staying at the Dillard apartment; and Shaun Hicks.

On May 15, U.S. Magistrate Judge Gerald B. Cohn issued a summary judgment in favor of the departments and officers. In his decision, the judge said one of the reasons for the judgment was the failure of plaintiff

Board approves plat for 91-acre development

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Business development near the intersection of Chain of Rocks Road and Illinois 111 was a major topic of discussion at the Pontoon Beach Village Board meeting Tuesday.

The board approved a preliminary plat with several variances for the Gateway-270 Commercial Park, a 91-acre development to the northeast of the Interstate 270-Illinois 111 interchange.

The development is being planned by Tristar Business Communities and is part of the larger Gateway Commerce Center.

PONTON BEACH

As presented by engineer Jimmy Stuart, the development includes 23 lots and a looping road connecting to Chain of Rocks Road.

The variances include allowing drainage ditches, a 50-foot roadway (60-foot is normal) and no sidewalks.

Village Engineer John Hales said the variances were acceptable.

The development also anticipates the relocation of the Illinois 111 and Chain of Rocks Road intersection. Stuart told

City razes another building downtown

A former hardware store near the corner of Niedringhaus and Cleveland is being torn down piece by piece.

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

The downtown Granite City landscape is changing again as another longtime feature comes down.

An abandoned and condemned former hardware store near the corner of Niedringhaus and Cleveland is being torn down piece by piece.

Last fall, the old Earl's sporting goods store, next to the abandoned building on the corner of Niedringhaus and Cleveland, was torn down. All that remains now is an empty lot and a sign on an adjoining building, denoting parking only for Earl's customers.

The city had condemned the abandoned building and already owned Earl's. The owner had given it to the city before it was torn down, said Dan Brown, Granite

District employee finds cure for millennium bug

By Larry Ingram
Correspondent

Thoughts of the Y2K situation — the millennium computer bug — are enough to cause some people to head for the hills, or at least expect dire consequences when the calendar turns to 2000.

But Monte Kessler, the director of data processing for the Granite City school district, remains unfazed.

GRANITE CITY SCHOOLS

"As far as I am concerned, we will be year 2000 compliant before the time comes," said Kessler.

Kessler knows what is causing all the concern because he has seen the same situation before.

"Back in the '60s and '70s, they had the same problem because they used to allow one digit for the year," said Kessler. "So for 1965, they just keyed in a 5. ... All of a sudden it was 1970 and the computer was confused. So they had to do a lot of rewriting then."

"But that was a long time ago and there wasn't the amount of software out. So companies made those changes," said Kessler.

For information managers like Kessler, 20 or 30 years can seem like a short period of time in relative computer years when technology is advancing so rapidly. "Instead of planning for 30 years or 40 years for the year 2000, they (software engineers) allotted two digits to take care of going from 1969 to 1970," said Kessler.

The Y2K problem is caused by dates that are used in some computer programs. Most use only the last two

Information age puts pressure on area schools

By Larry Ingram
Correspondent

When Monte Kessler started working with computers at the Granite City School district 26 years ago, there was a three-digit account number and approximately 250 accounts.

Kessler, the director of data processing for the school district, says the demand for information has "exploded."

"Now you've got a 17-digit account number and approximately 14,000 accounts," he says.

Kessler says there are so many more accounts because governments require specific accounting for expenses.

"A lot of the things that we do are controlled by the state and federal government," he says.

Kessler remembers a much simpler time when the demand for information was far less exact.

"Before, it (money) would go into a large pot. We knew it was income that we had received and we had expenses, but we did not have to detail it the way we do now," says Kessler.

"Now it has to be earmarked regardless of how minimal the amount of money."

"And that is a big part of the problem," says Kessler.

The district is also required to keep a history on current and past employees.

"It's a lot more than we did before. They may ask, 'Can you tell me if this person worked in your district in the past 10 years.' And they want dates and hours."

That demand for information has caused the current mainframe

Schools' academic standards too low

AN EDITORIAL

Despite a statewide mandate to toughen academic standards in Illinois, if you can pass a football, it's not necessary for you to pass all of your high school classes.

The Illinois General Assembly last December took action to force the state's schools to at least consider re-emphasizing education over sports and other extracurricular activities.

The so-called "no pass, no play" directive ordered all school districts containing grades 9 through 12 to set specific minimum requirements for extracurricular participation.

Sadly, minimum requirements is all that local school officials addressed.

Of ten area school districts surveyed by the Journal last week, only two actually strengthened their academic requirements. "Strengthen," of course, is a relative term. One of those, the Columbia School District, says it now requires students to attain a "D" or better in five courses, instead of only four. You can be stupid and still participate in football, cheerleading and band, but not quite as stupid as before.

Other St. Clair and Madison county school districts merely reiterated their reliance on the minimum standards set by the Illinois High School Association. IHSA requires students to pass 20 credit hours of high school work per week, the equivalent of four "full-credit" courses.

Passing means a D or better in classes. This is presumably not what the legislature had in mind.

The philosophy behind the legislation was simple: In the face of increasing evidence that students are under-achieving in the classroom, schools ought to emphasize academics. Requiring those who want to participate in extracurricular activities — whether it's sports, band, cheerleading or any other school-sponsored activity — to maintain an adequate level of academic achievement is a good place to start. That's why the attitude of many school leaders is so alarming.

Rather than allowing "D" students to participate in sports, music or other after-school clubs, school administrators ought to insist that questionable students spend the time hitting the books instead.

THAT would emphasize education.

It's no wonder so many athletes find themselves ineligible to participate in college sports because of academic deficiencies. Or that so many students leave high school with few skills.

We question the kind of leadership our school officials are displaying when they refuse to take a strong stand on this issue. Pushing athletes and other students to be serious about education is their duty.

To the collective school leadership in St. Clair, Madison and Monroe counties, a "D" average means a student is passing. The reality is, a 1.0 grade point average means students are failing to achieve average proficiency.

If a school district truly had a student's best interests at heart, it would require a "C" as the lowest acceptable grade in each class as a minimum requirement for participation in extracurricular activities.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Woman's thanks touches veteran

TO THE EDITOR:
I was invited to attend the O'Fallon 15 Cine Theater on July 25 for the 7 p.m. showing of "Saving Private Ryan." A lady sitting next to me asked where I had heard about this movie.

I replied that I had seen two men interviewed on the history channel by Sander Van Oker. Each had been in the invasion of Normandy and had been sergeants in the Rangers. They stated no movie could be more accurate than this one.

I told the lady that if those men were correct this would be a gory and terrible movie to watch. And that each American should see it so they can see and hear the living hell our armed forces go through to get and keep our wonderful American way of living.

Then she inquired if I was a veteran. I replied yes, from World War II in the European Theater of Operation.

During the movie I saw and heard people wiping tears from their eyes and exclamations such as "Oh, no," "Oh, my God," "Dear God," "How terrible." Some people were squirming in their seats and could not look at the screen.

After the movie, that lady turned to me crying. She gave me a big hug and kissed me on each cheek and through her tears she kept saying thank you, thank you.

There had been no tears in my eyes during the movie. But then tears did come to my eyes and I thanked her and said "God bless you." In her way she was thanking the rangers, the airborne and all combat veterans through me.

I am Americanism chairman for VFW Post 5691 at 1234 Vandalia Street in Collinsville. I would like for that lady to contact me, so me/um, if you read this in your paper, please contact me through our VFW Post. Thank you.

Money going to business, not people

TO THE EDITOR:
While members of the Illinois General Assembly are busy patting themselves on the back for providing yet another massive tax break for big business, current state and university retirees such as myself are wondering why we were not able to win approval of a modest pension increase.

We have all heard about the record gains in the financial markets and the massive profits for major corporations that have resulted. Why did the General Assembly give these corporations more money when we, the people who served this state with pride while employed as public servants, can barely afford to pay our monthly utility bills? The answer is simple: Illinois corporations such as John Deere can afford to contribute thousands of dollars to the campaign coffers of legislators, while the only thing current retirees can afford is a handshake and a vote.

This isn't responsible government. A responsible government, which in this case served as employer to more than 50,000 retirees, makes sure its retirees can live with dignity in retirement.

This government has already ensured that its elected officials will live with dignity in retirement. Now it's time to provide the same assurances to its non-elected public servants.

Hopefully, when legislators return to Springfield in November they will realize that an annual income of $6,565 for a current state retiree is virtually impossible to live on and they will approve a modest increase in our pensions. After all, they don't expect to live on that meager of a pension when they retire. Why should they expect it of us?

Opinions

SO HOW LONG
HAVE YOU BEEN A U.S. DIPLOMAT?

COMMENTS FROM CAROL CLARKIN

Subjective ranking promotes listlessness

Like many people, my life is governed in large parts by lists. Partially because of age. Without the grocery list, I come home with Greek olives but no laundry detergent. A common complaint. Essential appointments are scribbled on my calendar, must-do's listed in a small notebook which is somewhere on my person at all times. Except when I forget it.

A lifelong procrastinator, one who prefers working on a deadline, these lists have become vital to keeping my life somewhat on an even keel and I don't take them lightly.

This summer, however, I've been both amused and annoyed by the continuing "lists" which, I guess, have been developed in order to provide some relief from the tedium of dog days.

The first I saw, listing the 100 best movies of the century, I gave but a passing glance. Just enough to confirm that at least two of my own favorites didn't appear and that a number I consider, at best, mediocre, were well-raised. So, different strokes for different folks, I thought.

However, my reaction to the next list, the 100 best novels of the 20th century — which by the way, isn't over yet — was somewhat different. The list was compiled by Modern Library (Random House) editorial board members and a goodly number of those given high ratings were published by that firm. To say I was vexed would be putting it mildly, and I wasn't alone.

While I tend to read more non-fiction than fiction, I took a count and discovered that I had read 60 of the listed 100. Actually, 60-and-one-half, if I counted "Finnegan's Wake," which I gave up on about mid-way through. The judges seemed to have a dedication to the works of James Joyce, incidentally, placing "Ulysses" as numero uno and "Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man" as third best. "Finnegan" made number 77, for that matter. Predictably, "The Great Gatsby" was high on the list (though I would have expected No. 1, rather than No. 2). Not that I agree, but after all, it's the darling of a lot of people who have read little else. Almost as popular as Joyce was D.H. Lawrence (three books) and Joseph Conrad (four novels), but down the list a bit. I wouldn't argue with Conrad's listings, but I can only be thankful they didn't include "Lady Chatterley's Lover," one of the silliest books I've ever read.

But "Lolita" outranking Faulkner, Steinbeck, Dos Passos, Huxley, Bellow, Graham Greene, Robert Penn Warren? Personally, "Lolita" would never have come to mind had I been a judge. Neither, for that matter, would have the Studs Lonigan trilogy, "Portnoy's Complaint," "Ragtime," "The Magnificent Ambersons," "Tobacco Road," or "The Postman Always Rings Twice." Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer"? Not for this kid. I was somewhat appalled by a brief explanation of how the list was put together and books rated in order, supplied by William Styron (one of my own favorite novelists, whose "Sophie's Choice" made the cut) in an article in The New Yorker. Styron, who was one of the judges, admitted to the system's imperfections and made a sensible conclusion that all lists are weird and weird in different ways.

Pacified by Styron's commentary, I FINALLY came across the best and funniest of '98's "lists." This one was printed in Entertainment Weekly and was titled "The Fifty Greatest Lists of All Time." It was a hoot and made my day. Included were the 10 Commandments, "Schindler's List," Martin Luther's 95 Theses, Santa's list of who's naughty or nice, "1,001 Least Limericks," "50 Ways to Leave Your Lover," Fortune 500 and Forbes 400, the 12 days of Christmas, Joe McCarthy's list of Communists, Marlon Brando's grocery list, and last but far from least, Franz Kafka's list. I would have given Franz first place.

What are your thoughts on public schools changing to a uniform dress code?

Photos and interviews by Shirley Valencia

"I believe it is a good thing to have a certain degree of uniformity in what we wear. And it's less expensive and far less pressure on our parents."

Juanita Riley, 34
Sales representative

"I don't think we should have to wear uniforms. It has nothing to do with student violence. We already have a standard to go by, and that is enough. We've done fine without them this long, and we like it just the way it is."

Kendra White
Student

"I went to a private school, and I had to wear a uniform. I think it is a good idea. It would keep down a lot of animosity between the students who can't afford brand name merchandise."

Andria Sodini, 28
Self-employed

"I don't really like them. I love to go shopping and choose my own clothes for school. I would get really bored wearing the same thing every day."

Ashley Sobiech, 11
Student

"Uniforms are a good idea. They make a difference between our public and private schools. I think we need to keep the dress code we have."

Former Granite resident named inspector general

Man will work for U.S. Department of Treasury

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

A former Granite City resident has landed a job to officially check out the nation's treasury.

Davis C. Williams, son of the late Curtis and Ermel Williams of Granite City, was nominated to the post of inspector general of the U.S. Department of the Treasury by President Bill Clinton.

The inspector general conducts and supervises audits and investigations of the department's programs and operations.

Williams had been serving as the senior adviser to the inspector general. He served from 1996 to June 1998 as the inspector general of the Social Security Administration.

There, he was responsible for directing the staff of the Office of the Inspector General — which includes criminal investigators, auditors and inspectors — to detect fraud, waste and abuse and to assure efficient and effective program administration within the SSA.

Before joining the SSA, Williams served as inspector general to the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission from 1989 to 1996. He also has held positions as director of the Office of Special Investigations at the U.S. General Accounting Office, director of operations in the Office of Labor Racketeering at the Department of Labor and on the President's Commission on Organized Crime.

He was a special agent in both the United States Secret Service and U.S. military intelligence. He received the U.S. Bronze Star and the Vietnamese Medal of Honor.

Williams graduated from Southern Illinois University and received his advanced certificate in education and a master's in education from the University of Illinois. He also attended the U.S. Military Intelligence Academy, the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center and the U.S. Secret Service Academy.

City economic development director.

Currently, nothing definite is planned for the corner, but Brown said there is the possibility of rearranging and opening up that part of the six-way intersection to make truck passage easier. Cleveland, Niedringhaus and 19th streets all come together there and carry much truck traffic from the steel mills and other industries.

Right now, trucks passing through that intersection have a tight turn, and moving back the utilities would make passage much easier.

the board that the Illinois Department of Transportation plans to relocate the station farther north so it can remove the stop sign on the northbound 1-270 exit lane.

In a related matter, Larry Manns, the owner of the old Bel Air Drive-in property, updated the board on developments in dealing with Mick's Garage, a business located at the northwest intersection of Chain of Rocks Road and Illinois 111.

Manns plans a 25-acre business park on the old drive-in property but said several potential developers have been concerned about contaminated soil and debris from the garage property.

Manns said he had talked with several potential developers, including hotels and fast-food chains, but there have been no commitments yet.

Trustee Bob Vincent asked why it had taken so long to develop the property. Manns replied that there have been legal questions on the ownership that have just recently been settled and that he had a preliminary plat that probably would be presented to the board in the next month.

After some additional discussion, the matter was referred to the village attorney.

John Fincher, son of the garage owner, said Wednesday that they have not been contacted by any developers or heard any complaints.

"The tanks have got to come out by the first of the year anyway," he said.

As for Manns' development, Fincher said he didn't "have any idea what he's talking about."

"There's a lot of talk, that's all," he said.

tiff's attorney Thomas Ducey to respond to motions.

On the morning of the raid, approximately 10 officers from several different departments burst into Tarkus Dillard's apartment at 6 a.m. with weapons drawn looking for drugs and a drug dealer but found neither.

Dillard said an officer, later identified as Hays, put a gun in the face of one of the children, cocked it and screamed at the child.

Hicks was in a neighboring house and came out to see what the commotion was about. He was approached by several officers and detained.

At the time of the incident, Crouch apologized to the family but defended the department's actions.

He said the person for whom they were looking had a history of violent crime. He said that officers — concerned about their own safety — entered the apartment with their weapons drawn and pointed toward the floor.

Because the child was laying down, Crouch said it could have appeared to the startled adults that the officer was pointing a gun at the child.

Other officers not involved in the incident said that Hays had used a double-action semi-automatic gun that cannot be manually cocked.

The day before the raid, Crouch had said two people arrested for drug possession after a routine traffic stop said they had purchased drugs at the apartment.

Crouch also said the apartment manager erroneously had identified the suspect police were seeking as Blakely's boyfriend.

Based on the statements of the two informants, the misidentification by the apartment manager and past experience about drug use and sales in the area, police obtained a search warrant.

In his decision to throw out the federal case, Cohn said "that defendant officers' guns were drawn and they were shouting is not so unreasonable as to constitute an infringement of plaintiffs' constitutional rights, and well-trained officers could have engaged in similar conduct under the circumstances without believing that they were being unreasonable."

Bug

digits in the year.

For the district, a problem could arise when someone uses a computer program to search for student attendance records.

"If I want attendance on a student from Sept. 1, 1998, to June 1, 1999, I would write it down on a piece of paper with the year first: 98-99-01 through 99-00-01," said Kessler.

"If you change that to, say, Sept. 1, 1999, through June 1, 2000, you are looking at 99-00-01 through 00-00-01. You are saying the number on the left is the first date I want and the number on the right is the last date I want."

"But the last date, being 00, is the same as the year 1900. So the program would not recognize it as the year 2000. You would not get any result or information. It would make it impossible to retrieve information using that year," he said.

Kessler said the same problem can occur on the financial side with payrolls. He expects the programs for the school district finances to be 2000 compliant in the next 60 days.

"We are looking at every custom program that we ever wrote in the last 10 years to see if there is any date selection in it. If there isn't, nothing needs to be done. If there is, we're going along and using the same technique as a lot of the software houses are using. That is, they are looking at a date to test the software with."

Kessler said programmers years ago thought that the same software then would not be used in the year 2000 or that the programmers themselves wouldn't be around to have to take care of it.

"In some cases they found they were wrong on both accounts," Kessler said. The software is still around, and some of those programmers are still around fixing the problem. There have been a lot that have been called out of retirement that are being paid to take care of this."

Pressure

computer for the school district, an IBM AS-400, to jump to 60 percent use in just a few years. The recommended maximum is 50 percent.

The school district also plans to start conversion and training during the 1998-1999 school year for the new student administrative software, which will add even more demand to the system.

Kessler says changing the software now will allow him to assist the staff with the new software for an entire year before he leaves. Kessler will be retiring at the end of June in the year 2000.

The school district purchased the present mainframe in July 1994 with the original configuration selected to allow for four to five years of use.

The AS-400 mainframe is about the same size as a two-drawer file cabinet.

Granite City Soccer Club opens '98 season

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City Soccer Club opened its season Saturday with a parade and the first games of the year at the Granite City Soccer Complex.

The club has teams for boys and girls between the ages of 4 and 16.

"We have open registration in February at the Harold Bloom Rec Center," said Lynn Davis, board member and girls division coordinator for the club. "We try to send out flyers to grade schools and day-care centers to let them know we have teams available. We also have a hotline (876-9000) and we are still signing up kids and placing them on teams."

YOUTH SOCCER

"The spring session is in April and May. The one we have now is really the second session of the group that we organized in February. It will run from now until the end of October. Each team will get about 12 games in, depending on the weather."

Much of the club's ability to operate is dependent on the volunteer efforts of the parents and other members of the community.

"All the coaches are volunteers and parents," said Davis. "They mark on the registration form that they are willing to coach."

The parade Saturday was a way to reward the kids, and keep their attentions focused before the games begin.

"Our kids love being out here and getting the prizes," said Judy Stormer, vice president of Granite City Soccer Club. "We lined kids up by team, from youngest to oldest. We handed out raffle tickets with the kids' names on them—we've tried it with just the ticket numbers, but realized that while kids will remember their names they won't necessarily remember their number."

"Every child in the parade had a chance to win prizes donated by local businesses. Some companies donated money, others soccer equipment, like balls, shin guards, or duffel bags. Some donated products they make, like Pepsi and Capri Sun. Walmart donated soccer equipment. Raging Rivers, Family Fun Time and the St. Louis Ambush (indoor soccer team) donated tickets. Ultimate Sports, Shirts-N-Stuff, Daisy Queen and many other local companies helped us out a lot.

The Cahokia High football program will huddle up for the first time Friday night without the considerable presence of Byron Gettis.

PREP FOOTBALL

The 6-foot-1, 220-pound Gettis had started at quarterback for the Comanches since his sophomore season, throwing for more than 1,000 yards each year. Last fall, Gettis threw for 1,371 yards and 16 touchdowns while rushing for 335 yards on 48 carries (11.1-yard average) and six more touchdowns. He capped his prep career by leading the Comanches to an 8-1 record, the South Seven Conference title, and a Class 5A playoff appearance.

This summer, Gettis signed a major-league contract to play baseball with the Kansas City Royals organization.

He left a gaping hole in his alma mater's offensive attack.

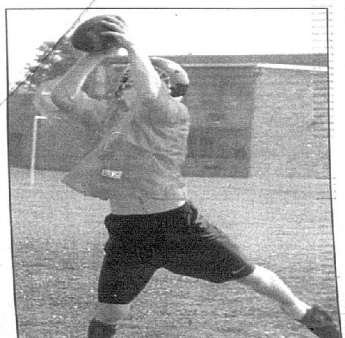

"We've even played him some as a freshman," said Cahokia coach Bob Eden, whose depleted forces host Granite City 7:30 p.m. Friday in both teams' season-openers. "Really, the last 3 1/2 years, he's been pretty much of a door stop here."

Gettis wasn't the only key player to graduate from the 1997 squad, which went 8-0 in the regular season before losing to Bloomington in the first round of the playoffs. The Comanches graduated 18 starters, including stalwarts like Aaron Blanks and Darren Goodwin.

"We lost a ton of letterman, some pretty good kids," said Eden, who is entering his 13th season as Cahokia's coach. "We miss all those kids. But we don't live in the past here. We move on."

Cahokia is neither a sitting target nor a dead duck this year. Despite the roster hits they took, Cahokia is not without veteran leadership. Thanks to the Comanches' dominance last year—they outscored eight regular season foes 315-66, an average score to 39.3 to 10.7—Eden was able to get several underclassmen key varsity playing time.

"We have approximately six seniors that are going to help us," Eden said. "We had a lot of sophomores and the six seniors that were juniors last year got a lot of valuable experi-

Edwardsville captures Legion World Series

By Louie Korac
Staff writer

In the aftermath of the 1998 American Legion World Series, skeptics scoffed at the notion of Edwardsville Post 199 being the best team in the field.

But in the end, Edwardsville stands alone as national champions.

Edwardsville completed a dream season by defeating Cherryville (N.C.) Post 100 9-4 in the championship game Tuesday at Cushman Field in Las Vegas. Post 199 finished at 41-7.

Twins James and Ben Hutton worked their magic once again on the mound and Edwardsville's bats defied all odds and came through in the clutch—scoring five of its nine runs after two were up in an inning, something they have been able to do time and time again.

A crowd of 1,891 watched the championship game. Edwardsville overcame a 2-0 fifth-inning deficit, scoring in each of the last five innings to come from behind and claim the championship.

LEGION BASEBALL

James Hutton (9-2) kept Edwardsville at the game until the bats finally solved Cherryville pitcher Brian Signm (7-5), who had kept Post 199's offense off stride for four innings.

"An unlikely occurrence" turned the tides in Edwardsville's favor. With two outs and nobody on in the top of the fifth, designated hitter Matt Bogle was hit by Signm's 0-2 delivery. That turned the tide.

Right fielder Kory Kuba laced a 3-2 pitch for an RBI double that scored Bogle and cut Cherryville's lead to 2-1.

"It just goes to show you that we don't quit," said Edwardsville center fielder Dave Crouthers. "We seem to thrive when the pressure is on and we feed off each other when we seem down. Our offense rallies around one another when there are two outs. We get pumped up and are motivated to do some damage with two outs."

Edwardsville took the lead for good in the sixth when another two-out rally was started by Todd Haug's double

"The kids have a lot of faith in themselves," said Edwardsville manager Ken Schaake. "They want to do well as a team and that's the mark of a good team. They're not afraid to get other down and to have a two-out rally, you have to be concentrating as a team, playing as a team and trying for the team."

Edwardsville put the game away and chased Signm in the seventh as Bogle singled and Kuba singled. With one out, second baseman Tim Hansel drove in Bogle for a 4-2 lead off reliever Ralph Roberts.

Then Legion Player of the Year Chad Opel, the tournament's leading hitter, singled in Kuba for a 5-2 lead. Hansel scored on a wild pitch to make it 6-2.

After Cherryville, which finished the season 41-16, scored twice in the seventh off Hutton to make it 6-4, Chris McCoy zoned in on a Roberts' 0-2 fastball and roped a home run down the left field line for a 7-4 lead—all but dashing Cherryville's chances for a rally of its own.

"That was a pretty special moment then because hearing the crowd go wild and then hearing the music really made it feel good," McCoy said. "The national championship game—the moment of it all—just made it feel good right off the bat."

In the ninth, Opel walked with two outs and went to third on a Haug single. Opel scored on a passed ball by Cherryville catcher Wesley Hudson, then Seibert greeted Hudson with a double that scored Haug with the final run of the game.

Ben Hutton, who recorded his second save, came on in the eighth and shut down Cherryville. He gave up a two-out double in the ninth to Josh Cobb, but got Justin Sanford to ground out to Hansel and the celebration was on.

"If James could have finished it by himself, all the power to him," said Ben Hutton, who pitched a complete game in the semifinal victory.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

The Southern Illinois-Edwardsville volleyball team finished 17-15 last year—not bad for a program only four years old.

The Cougars stood tall at 11-5 in the Great Lakes Valley Conference, and look to pass those marks with the help of some new blood.

"Last year, our main weakness was our passing," said SIUE coach Sandy Montgomery. "We didn't pass consistently at all. But we had a strong offense that pulled us through. We had a lot of it, and we got even more, even better, with our new players."

The new players are Lindsay Rust, who comes over as a transfer from Indiana State; and Anne Ulrich transferred to SIUE from Illinois Central Community College.

"ICC is a nationally renowned program," said Montgomery. "They're usually very competitive."

"Lindsay and Anne will add even more to our attack. And they address the real problems we had—they are going to be two of our best passers. That's what we looked for in recruiting: outside strength, passing and serving."

"Our outside hitting was excellent," she said. "Jill Stenger was one of our outside hitters. She's also a captain, a senior and probably the most vocal leader on the court."

"Michelle and Kim Gilman are both captains also. Michelle is a senior and she'll play in the middle. Kim is a junior and she'll be our right-side hitter and setter. Both of them work very hard, as hard in practice as in the games. They have a great work ethic and are very athletic."

"Christy Scheller is a senior and she's our setter. She has great hands for a setter, runs our offense, and is one of our better servers."

"Heather Vaughn is a sophomore, and probably our most versatile player. She played right side last year, but will probably play middle and middle back on defense for us this season. She's probably our best all-around player."

"Mandy Tubbs is our defensive specialist. She serves the ball well and adds leadership to our back-row defense, even more now that she's a senior."

Montgomery gets one of the puzzle pieces back that she recruited a year ago.

"Jennifer Parks was a redshirt freshman last year," said Montgomery. "She will see some time in the middle and on the right side."

"She didn't get any game experience last year, so she's still gaining that. She has a lot of potential. With more experience, she'll get even better. She's in that process right now. She is almost 6-foot-1 and has long arms—a long reach. That's a big asset for her."

All these pieces have to fit together and mesh for the SIUE program to continue its progress. As the Cougars will face more experienced opposition all season.

"Our schedule is very tough," said Montgomery. "We open at home, and that's always tough, with the nerves you get playing in front of your own fans."

"We have nine teams on our schedule that are either in the top 25 or received top-25 votes. That makes the schedule very strong. Our conference is strong, Northern Kentucky made it into the NCAA Tournament last year. IPFW (Indiana/Purdue-Fort Wayne) is always tough. We play Washington University (St. Louis), who were the (NCAA) Division III champions. They're always tough, too."

"This is a harder schedule than we've had in the past. But this is the fourth year of the program. It has been something of a difficult process to get to this point, but we're looking for good things."

Tubbs is optimistic the good things will be there.

"I like our chances in the conference a lot. We definitely have the talent. We just have to put it together and make things happen."

New season interesting

Another high school sports season is upon us. Time to put away the swim trunks and the suntan lotion.

The hard work of the area athletes in the off-season will now bear fruit in the fall, winter and spring seasons to come. In today's times, there is no off-season for the dedicated high school athletes. Such is the state of high school sports today.

The Metro East sports scene promises to be interesting this year. The overriding theme, no doubt, will be the merger of the two public high schools in East St. Louis—East St. Louis Senior and Lincoln. How the young men and young women perform on the athletic surfaces very well could dictate how well things go in the classroom. There is still much resentment from the Lincoln people about losing their high school. But if the athletic teams do well, it very well could overcome those hostilities and bring some harmony to the city. Sports has a way of bringing people together.

On the surface, it appears that East St. Louis, because of the merger, will be even stronger in sports as football, basketball and track and field—sport in which at least one of the schools has been a traditional power. The Associated Press voters are all aware of the merger. They voted East St. Louis the No. 2 ranking in Class 5A in the preseason football poll.

Other Southeastern Conference football powers like Edwardsville and Belleville-Eaton should continue its rise to prominence, now that Bob Shannon, who is also now the school's athletic director, is in his third year as the head football coach. The SWC

"During the season, local businesses purchase advertising spots on our kickboards. The money we collect from that goes into keeping up the fields, paying the referees and getting new equipment."

"Three-quarters of our membership is made up of volunteers. Of course, parents are involved, but we also get a lot of help from other people in Granite City. Bob Yount is our head referee. He trains our referees, who start with the younger divisions. Bob works with them on positioning, rules and how to apply them. He also stresses a kind of balance how to be firm enough to the kids without taking a heavy hand. Many of our refs have gone on to be certified and ref Elks or select or high school games."

"This organization was a merger three years ago between Madison County and Quad City Soccer Associations," said Granite City Soccer Club President Steve Cavins. "They combined the boys and girls divisions into one. We have over 70 teams now."

"We are doing all of this from a positive standpoint. We stress good sports and good sportsmanship. The extra space gives us more room to teach them and help them learn. The coaches are actually out on the field to assist players and talk them through what they need to do."

"They play games that involve a soccer ball, but they don't actually have to learn the organization of the game. They don't have the concentration to pick it up at that age. They learn basic skills, like dribbling and passing."

"Kids usually spend one year in campers, then go to a 6-on-6 league, which are played on smaller fields but are regulation games. The extra space gives us more room to teach them and help them learn. The coaches are actually out on the field to assist players and talk them through what they need to do."

Saturday's games began sometime around 12:30 p.m., hours after the parade was over, at the Granite City Soccer Complex, where most of the games are played during the season. Some of the fields are lit to accommodate night games, and Worthen Park allows the club the use of a few of its fields when necessary."

"We are a non-profit organization," said Stormer. "We get our funds from team fees and the advertisers on the kickboards. We usually do some sort of fund-raiser, too. This year we have raffle tickets for $1. All the prizes are cash with a drawing Oct. 6. We'll sell them until late September. You can ask any coach or team member or come out here to the G.C. Soccer Complex if you want to buy a ticket."

"This is the second year in a row we're having a swim party. It goes from 5:30 to 7:30 (today) and Friday at Wilson Park Pool. It's the club's way of thanking the workers and coaches for all of their hard work. It's for the whole family, not just the kids. All players, coaches and their families are invited."

"I just like to play," said Natalie Crane. "It makes me run and dribble."

"I made new friends," said Samantha Detweiler. "Winning as a team is the best part."

"I play for Pepsi and Daddy's my coach," said Candace Rose Harper. "Even if we don't win we go to play next week."

Warriors struggle in opening match

The Granite City golf team stumbled a bit on its way out of the starting gate for the 1998 season.

In the Madison County Meet, the opening match of the year, the Warriors finished fourth behind Alton, Edwardsville and Triad.

"We didn't play very well," said Warriors coach Dwayne Chaney. "We certainly didn't place overall. Brett Briggs, a junior, was the next-best fin-

"It's a disappointing start, but it's the first match of the season," said Chaney. "Hopefully, we'll improve from here. I expect to see better results."

Granite City's next match is Thursday at Arlington Golf Course with three opponents — Civic Memorial, Highland and Triad. On Saturday, they play in the Quincy Tournament, featuring 25 of the best teams in the Metro East.

Drivers chase titles at Tri-City Speedway

By Jim Wiener
Correspondent

Three weeks remain on the NASCAR Winston Racing Series weekly program at Tri-City Speedway and the closest race for the points title is in NASCAR Winston Racing Series Modifieds.

John Seets and defending points champion Ray Walsh are eight points apart going into the final three weeks of racing, which includes this Saturday at 7 p.m. Seets has eight feature wins and 1,126 points while Walsh has 10 wins and 1,118 points.

The Tri-City Charger Series will not decide its points champion until the final race of the season. Billy Moikenbur has 25 points, Mark Mathenia follows with 250 and Ron McAntrie has 220.

Other classes are down to just a few drivers mathematically alive in the points race, however, the points leaders have commanding advantages.

In Mountain Dew Street Stocks, B.J. Seets, the Squires' lead driver, is still mathematically alive.

AUTO RACING

However, Seets has 886 points while Squires has 800 and Glover has 782. Seets can lock up the title by finishing in the top 10 in features, lower if he scores in the heats.

The battle for the Budweiser Pro Stocks title is down to current points leader Terry McClintock and defending champion John Dickerman. McClintock has 1,018 points to Dickerman's 934. All McClintock needs is to finish no lower than ninth in the features, lower if McClintock scores in the heats.

In the Quaker State Sportsman, Terry James has 940 points while Joe Procola has 910. Tin Barrett, who has 10 feature wins, has 734 and the most he can earn is 914.

James can lock up the title by finishing no worse than eighth in features, lower if he scores in the heats.

The Pepsi-Cola Legends Cars Series makes one more appearance this Saturday.

ence because of the lopsided scores we had. So if their's one consolation to being a young team, we're not that inexperienced, except in (close) game-tested situations."

"When they got in, we had a little bit of a lead. At least they were used to varsity competition and they panned out pretty well, as the film shows. Even with that experience, Eden has practically had to rebuild his entire offense."

Senior Mike Sharp (6-0, 255) — who will move from guard to tackle — and center Eric Wren (6-3, 265) are the only returning starters on offense. Senior guard Shawn Sayles (6-0, 235), who played but didn't start, is also back.

Sophomore Orlando Gooden (6-0, 170) and juniors Malcolm Henderson (5-10, 170) and Terrance Westbrook (5-8, 155) will compete at running back, which could be one of the team's strong suits.

"(Gooden) is just a sophomore, but man he plays like he's been there a long time," Eden said. "Henderson is looking a lot like running back and so is Westbrook. Those three kids are fighting pretty good for the two spots we have there." Junior Darius Smith (6-2, 165) will try to fill Gettis' shoes at quarterback. Eden still is experimenting at tight end with senior James Gentry (5-11, 200) and junior Leron Green (6-1, 170).

The Comanches also return just two starters on defense, linebacker Henderson and senior Chris McGee (5-9, 165), who will move from defensive end to strong safety.

As for the newcomers, Eden has been impressed with Gooden, a linebacker, and defensive tackle Randy Ingram (6-1, 310), a first year senior.

"We've always had tough kids here," Eden said. "Our speed is a strength this year. We've got pretty good numbers. We have 65 out on sophomore, junior and senior."

"We're just a little bit young," Eden said. "And we need to gel and develop some continuity."

Whatever the fallout from Cahokia's losses, Granite City will be sure not to take them lightly.

"I have a tremendous amount of respect for Cahokia," said Granite City coach Nick Petrillo. "They are a well-coached team whose kids always come out ready to play."

The Warriors lost last year's opening game to the Comanches, 37-16. Eden comes into the game expecting a tough test from Granite City.

This is the best team they've had in years under (Granite City coach Nick) Petrillo," said Eden, entering his 13th season as Cahokia's coach.

is shaping up as one of the top football conferences in the state.

On the soccer scene, it's anyone's guess as to which team will surface as the area's best. As longtime Granite City coach Gene Baker says, "Ask me sometime later (as to the area's best team)."

Edwardsville surprised everyone by finishing second in Class AA last season, ending St. Charles' state dominance in the semifinal contest. Could there be another Cinderella team this season? Belleville East and Triad stood out during the regular season in 1997, but both squads fell in sectional play. East to Granite City on penalty kicks in the semifinal and Triad to Carbondale in the final. Both squads are again expected to be strong this season, with Triad looking for that elusive state championship in Class A.

On paper, it doesn't appear that any of the Southwestern Conference squads will be as strong as they were last year, although Baker says his team could surprise a lot of teams. However, the Warriors suffered a big blow when junior goalkeeper Justin Roehr had to have reconstructive knee surgery in June. His return date is still to be determined. On the bright side, Baker is losing sophomore Mike Smith, a 5-foot-10, 170-pound sophomore, whom he says could be the next Shawn Petroski. Petroski went from Granite City High, bypassing college ball at SIU-Edwardsville, to play professionally in Germany, where he is in that country's top league. "He should get up to 195 to 200 pounds by his senior year," Baker says of Smith. "He's extremely strong on the ball. He's big, big time. He's a finisher and has toughness."

Perennial powerhouse Collinsville will have to overcome a serious motorcycle injury to its head coach, Ron Rowden, plus the loss of Chris Choate, who was expected to be the Kahoks' top scorer this season. Choate has moved to Missouri and will be playing for perennial Missouri powerhouse CBC.

Post 199 gets plenty of support

By Louie Korac
Staff writer

Members of the Edwardsville Post 199 American Legion baseball team had plenty of support in pursuit of its World Series title this week in Las Vegas.

Post 199 defeated State College (Pa.) 9-3 on Monday night and then topped Cherryville (N.C.) 9-4 on Tuesday to capture the American Legion World Series championship.

(Tuesday's game will be broadcast noon today on ESPN.)

A loyal group of Edwardsville parents and fans cheered on Post 199, which finished the year 41-7. Edwardsville defeated host Las Vegas and Excelsior (Minn.) while losing only to Danville (Calif.) in pool play to reach the national semifinals.

"I'm really proud of all of them," said Keith Opel, father of shortstop Chad Opel and an assistant coach to manager Ken Schaake. "They've really worked hard to get here and they've had a goal since sixth or seventh grade. When they saw that Las Vegas was in there, they were thinking that they had a shot to go and here they are. It's unbelievable. It's something I'll never forget."

Keith Opel, who accompanied his son to Las Vegas without Chad's mother Jeannie, knew his wife was listening and watching ... on the Internet.

"The people back home, I know they're excited and they're calling my wife all the time," Opel said. "I wish she was here. That's really bothering me, but you don't really realize what it's like being here. Even if we lose, you've got to be proud of everything they've accomplished."

Steve Haug, father of Todd Haug and another assistant coach, has had many memorable baseball moments in his life, but said this ranks as one of the best, especially because his son is involved.

LEGION BASEBALL

"He's had a great opportunity," Steve Haug said of Todd. "He's produced. He's helped contribute to this ballclub and it's been a great ride. The experience of a father and a son having the same experience and same memories is quite special. This whole group of kids has heart beyond belief. When this is all over, this is at the top. I can't imagine explaining this."

Two interested parents had no son performing on the field, but instead were watching the work of the manager.

"This has been great and I think the kids are a great example of what we look for in fine young men," said Don Schaake, father of the manager. "I think they've really conducted themselves well and are a real plus to the community."

"I'm real proud of them," said Evelyn Schaake, Ken Schaake's mother. "This is a great experience that they'll never have again. No matter what they do here, we're very proud of all of them."

The Schaakes are having the time of their lives watching their son, especially since Don was once the Post 199 manager.

"We're very proud of him," Don said. "This is an experience that he'll never forget. We'll never forget it either."

Matt Turner's mother, Nadine Pfeiffer, was cherishing the moment.

"This is the most thrilling thing that's ever happened to me in my life," she said. "Considering he's my only son, it makes it extra special. They are a great group of kids. For them to be in the top two is amazing in itself. Whatever they do from here on out is not any concern because they've gotten this far. I'll never forget it."

Edwardsville pitcher Ben Hutton posted a complete-game victory in the semifinal and picked up the save in the championship game.

•Edwardsville

Ben Hutton went nine innings Monday night as Edwardsville posted a 9-3 victory against State College, Pa. But Hutton informed Schaake he could be used if needed Tuesday.

"I was ready," Ben Hutton said.

James Hutton has been on the mound for many big games — that IHSAA Class AA state title game for Edwardsville High and the Great Lakes Region championship for Post 199 — prior to the Legion finale.

"The whole team responded tonight," he said. "They came up and got a little run on us, but we came back and hit the ball real good. This is a team win. It's always been a team win. The pitcher gets more of the glory, but I don't deserve more than anybody else on that team."

Opel earns Player of the Year award

By Louie Korac
Staff writer

Chad Opel had been mired in a horrendous batting slump earlier in the American Legion baseball season.

It appeared he wasn't having much fun. But when the 1998 American Legion World Series was all said and done, Opel received recognition for being the best player in American Legion baseball.

Opel, who worked himself out of a batting slump during the District 22 double-elimination playoffs, found himself as the leading hitter in the ALWS with a .632 average — a mere 18 points off the record.

After helping Edwardsville Post 199 win the ALWS, Opel was given the George W. Rulon Award for being named the American Legion Player of the Year.

The shortstop said being crowned national champions meant more than the player honor.

"It feels pretty good, but someone has to get the awards," he said. "The whole team gets the trophy. That was our main objective. Nobody's out there trying to win player of the year or any other certain type of award. We were all just trying to hit the ball, pitch and play defense, and win the national championship and we did."

When Opel was announced to receive the award, his father, assistant coach Keith Opel, stood in the background with his head slightly bowed and a few tears flowing down his cheeks.

"You just have that feeling going through my mind of 'That's Chad out there,'" Keith Opel said. "It was kind of the same way in high school when he and Matt (Evers) got co-MVPs (at the high school state tournament). It was like the tears come to your eyes and you can't believe how lucky you are to have something like that happen to your son."

Opel and Evers helped lead Edwardsville High School to the Illinois High School Association Class AA state championship with a 40-0 record, then followed it up with a legion national championship and a 41-7 mark.

For most of the players, there was some sadness about the end of the line for a team that has been together for many years.

"We've been playing together since we were little," Chad Opel said. "We stuck it out through all the tough times. Now, we're all going to go our separate ways, but I think that's the good thing about this team. We're all going to stay close, talk a lot, get together for a lot of occasions because not many teams have won a state title in high school and win a national championship in Legion ball."

"He might have gotten player of the year, but you have to look at it this way: he wouldn't have been here — he wouldn't have gotten the chance to do it — without Ben and James (Hutton) and every other player on the team," Keith Opel said.

"To me, they're all MVPs. It's just that Chad was the lucky one to get the breaks at the right time."

Keith Opel said manager Ken Schaake also deserves praise for the job he did. "Coach Schaake has to be given a lot of credit," Keith Opel added. "He worked and scouted and figured out what to do to get this championship done."

Chad Opel will someday be able to sit down with his children and grandchildren and show them what he did in 1998.

"I think that'll be a couple years down the road," he said. "Hopefully, I'll be fighting for another World Series championship in college, but this is something later on down the road that I'm really going to appreciate and be able to sit back and tell my kids about. It's an accomplishment that I'll remember for a long time."

IT HAPPENED THIS WEEK

Editor's note: This column was compiled from the files of the Press-Record.

76 YEARS AGO

Aug. 24, 1923 — George Lewis (not the well-known police officer of that name) but one George Lewis, formerly of Rolla, Mo., now of some place not known to local authorities, went to all the trouble of constructing a big concrete mash vat beneath his place of abode, and then gave the job up, apparently for some field where competition is not so keen in the bootlegging business.

"George had evidently been operating upon a small scale, as several empty barrels and an old copper mash boiler were found in a partially refilled dugout beneath the floor of his three-room shack and a boggy place in one corner of the yard showing where he had disposed of the mash by burying it."

50 YEARS AGO

Aug. 23, 1948 — "One of the men problems confronting the local peace-time draft board, which organized and elected officers yesterday, may be solved, it became known today, when Mayor McFarlin said he felt sure we can work out something in the way of office space as an accommodation to our hundreds of young men who will be required to register."

"W. Finis Smith, wartime Granite City selective service chairman, who was selected to that position at yesterday's meeting, explained that lack of a local headquarters would force all the registrants within the board's jurisdiction to go to Edwardsville."

Start of school is an important time

The beginning of a new school year can be the start of a journey toward success if parents, students and teachers work together. Here are some suggestions from the National Education Association for parents who want to help their child start the new school year right.

The first day jitters
Start talking now about the upcoming school year and the first day of classes. If it hasn't already started, discuss what to expect on the first day — catching up with old friends, meeting new ones, and meeting new ones, learning classroom rules, and finding out what's ahead. Take note of how you feel about your child going off to school. If you're anxious, try not to communicate it.

If you're new to the area, take time to visit the school before classes begin. Walk, drive, or show your child the bus route to familiarize him or her with the trip to school.

Getting to know you
Make time to get to know your child's teacher and classroom aide. Let the teacher know that you appreciate feedback on your child's progress — both positive and negative. Alert the teacher to anything out of the ordinary that's going on with your child or family. Make a point of meeting other school staff members: the principal, school secretary, bus driver, cafeteria staff and others your child will be to have productive and positive school experience.

"Whether it's bedroom desk or the kitchen table, every child needs a regular place to study and complete homework. This area should be well lighted with school supplies like paper, pencils and a dictionary."

A place of one's own
Whether it's bedroom desk or the kitchen table, every child needs a regular place to study and complete homework. This area should be well lighted with school supplies like paper, pencils and a dictionary.

Kids (and parents) love routines
Set aside a specific time for studying every night. Discuss with your child what time of the day would work best. Right after school? Just before dinner? Immediately following dinner? If your child attends an after-school program, find out if students will be expected to do homework there. If your child completes homework assignments away from home, plan to review the work at a set time every night. If homework has already been completed, have the child use study time for reading or reviewing problem areas.

Create high expectations
To learn, children must believe that they can learn. As the parent, you are the most important adult in your child's life. The feedback you give your child — what you say and do about his or her abilities — will have a lasting impact on your child's self-confidence. Be encouraging, and praise your child for the amount of effort that he puts into a project. Let her know that doing her best is what counts.

Reading can be contagious
Research shows that children who are read to in their early years do better in school. Make reading a habit in your home, for both you and your child. Each night before bed, read to your child for at least 20 minutes. If the child is learning to read, ask him or her to read to you. For older children, set 30 minutes aside each night for family reading time when everyone reads together silently. Keep plenty of reading materials available — books, magazines and newspapers. Let your kids see you reading and they're more likely to pick up the habit.

Be prepared for your next parent-teacher conference
Talk with your child beforehand about what she thinks are her best subjects or what he likes least. Find out if your child has anything that he or she would like you to ask. Write down your own list of questions. Feel free to ask about your child's progress or about anything you don't understand about the school program. Most importantly, talk to the teacher about ways you can work together to help your child.

Schools communities success
To be effective, schools need the support of the parents and the community. Find out key dates during the year when there will be opportunities for you to participate in school events. Mark your family calendar and your personal date book now to hold those dates. Look for specific ways that you can support your child's school. Volunteer a few hours in the classroom. Offer to speak to your child's class (or others) about a special hobby or area of expertise. Encourage a local business to adopt your child's school. Join the PTA to ensure that you have a voice in the work of the school. Offer to help with a special school project. Organize a school beautification day.

WEDDINGS

Erin Damgaard and David Wise Jr.

Damgaard-Wise

Erin Patrice Damgaard, daughter of Marshall and Patty Damgaard of Minden, Neb., and David James Wise Jr., son of David and Catherine Wise of Granite City and Marian and Tommy Yanner of Malden, Mo., have announced their engagement. Damgaard is a 1994 graduate of Minden High School and received her tour and travel degree from Lincoln School of Commerce in 1995. She is employed at the Hyatt Regency Crown Center in Kansas City, Mo., as an executive administrative assistant for the rooms division.

Wise attended school at Granite City Senior High School and is employed at Midwest Computer Cable in Lenexa, Kan., as a computer cable technician.

The couple is planning a Sept. 5 wedding at Hillcrest Christian Church in Overland Park, Kan.

Corynthia Thompson and Derrick Kingsley

Thompson-Kingsley

Billy and Shirley Kingsley of Granite City have announced the engagement of their son, Derrick Wayne Kingsley, to Corynthia Anna Thompson.

Thompson is the mother of Bre-Anne and Seth Brown and is the granddaughter of Wanda Partain and the late Dee Partain of Booneville, Ark. She is a 1988 graduate of Booneville High School and has been modeling in Amsterdam in the Netherlands for the past year.

Kingsley, a graduate of Granite City South High School, is a 1996 graduate of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. and earned his wings in July 1998. He will be flying the Seahawk helicopter for the U.S. Navy.

Sandra Shed and Juan Rios

Shed-Rios

Sandra Roseman Shed and Juan Manuel Rios were married on June 20, 1998, at Good Shepard Roman Catholic Church in Ferguson, Mo., by the Rev. Gregory Mikeesch.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Shed of Granite City.

The groom is a doctor of internal medicine and has his own practice in Collinsville. The maid of honor was Candy Marie Carty of Ferguson, daughter of the bride. The bridesmaid was Nikki Higgins, friend of the bride. The best man was Larry Nowicki Jr. of Ferguson, son of the bride. The groomsmen were David Christopher Shea Nowicki, son of the bride. The flower girl was Melonie Schimmermund. The ringbearer was Anthony J. Rios, son of the groom. Ushers were Joe Schimmermund, Jason Lacey and Roy Henke, all of Ferguson.

Bunco Club, other organizations met recently

The Bunco Club met Tuesday in the home of Edna Bennett. Members present were Melody Bettis, Debbie Vincent, Carlene Whitehead, Kathy Feldt, Cindy Naughton, Vicki Royce, Phyllis Higgins, Sally Kirksey, Margaret Buske and Robbie Wilson. The next meeting will be in the home of Kirksey.

Ruth Dagon has returned home from a two-week vacation to Panama Beach, Fla., and the Gulf of Mexico. She was accompanied by her son, Jeff, his wife, Gayle, and their children, Matthew and Jennifer. They visited several interesting places, shopped in the malls and enjoyed the ocean.

The Pontoon Beach Senior Citizen Board held its meeting Aug. 15. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. It was reported the fence was repaired and painted. Plans were made for someone from George Ryan's office to attend and speak on the scams that are now going around. Members present were Earl and Rose Edmiston, Everett Hudson,

Maxine Green

Jim Hill, Edna Bennett, Nellie Forrest, Walt Crowell and Robbie Wilson.

The Ruth class of Calvary Baptist Church met in the home of Norma Ross. Dorothy Watkins led in prayer for the requests that were given. Secretary Ruth Dagon and Treasurer Pat Willis gave their reports, which were approved. Phyllis Knight gave a devotional on "Always Make the Best of Your Precious Time."

The new project of the month was for the class to buy dish towels for the church kitchen. Pat Willis led games. Prizes went to Lois Bivens and Watkins. Others present were Virginia Bueschel and Bernice Boyer. The next meeting will be in the home of Dagon, who will be assisted by Boyer.

Paul and Edna Bennett and their son, David Bennett, have returned from Dover, Tenn. They visited Edna's father, Roy Whitehead, a former resident, who was ill in the Trinity Hospital in Erin, Tenn.

Members of the home-makers class enjoyed a watermelon social with their monthly meeting at Calvary Baptist Church. Attending were Emily Hogopian, Tina Lyons, Donna Bryant, Marge Borth, Louise Sullivan and Betty Gerdes.

Kay Anderson and her daughter, Tina, attended the 50th birthday celebration for Kay's brother, Milton Vickers, Aug. 15 in the park in Rockwood. Other relatives from this area attending were Marvin Vickers and Jerry and Marsha Kirkpatrick and their daughter, Sarah.

A back class was held Aug. 17 in the lecture room at the Shipley Chiropractic office. Topic for the evening was "Do You Have a Family Chiropractor?" Dr. Larry Shipley discussed the importance of yearly checkups and different types of injuries treated by chiropractic.

A door prize was awarded—Charley York was the winner of a television. Refreshments were served to Earl and Rose Edmiston, Charles and Pam York, Carolyn Sullivan, Brian Flowers, Annette Edwards, Ruth Lelik, Roscoe Martin, Clarence and Emma McGrahan, Dorothy Jones, Tanya Ida Shipley.

The next class will be at 7 p.m. Sept. 1. The topic will be nutrition. The public is invited. Call 931-2001 for information.

Hispanic culture to be saluted

Event Sept. 6 at Shrine is in honor of Our Lady of Guadalupe

The area's Hispanic culture will be saluted at a special celebration next weekend at the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows.

The Hispanic Celebration is in honor of Our Lady of Guadalupe.

The salute to the Missouri and Illinois Spanish-American population will be held Sunday, Sept. 6, at the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows.

This is a special festival to share Hispanic traditions of music, food, and art.

Activities begin with the Eucharistic celebration in 'espanol' at 11:30 a.m., followed by a pot luck lunch at 1 p.m. (those attending must bring a dish).

The Way of the Cross begins at 4 p.m., an international buffet at 5 p.m., and Rosary and candlelight procession at 7:30 p.m.

Mariachi music will be played at 9 p.m.

For additional information contact the Rev. Harold Fisher, OMI, at the Shrine, 397-6700 (TTY).

Summer offered movie for every taste

But some got buried as the competition heated up

This summer's movies weren't for the faint-hearted, what with all the flying meteors, whizzing German bullets, slashing swords, lethal black goo and that rampaging lizard.

And yet people went to see them, and in droves. There was something for every taste, no matter how bad, and at least two serious Oscar contenders emerged, unusual for the popcorn season.

With so much on the menu, however, there was the constant challenge to stand out, and more than a few films got buried, leaving the summer with many winners and losers. Among them:

WINNER: The audience. The summer season is usually noted for its sequels and mindless action movies — not to mention mindless action sequels — and certainly the summer of 1998 had its share, from "Lethal Weapon 4" to "Godzilla." But quality also could be found in such Oscar-worthy fare as "Saving Private Ryan" and "The Truman Show," raising the bar for the fall "quality" season.

The summer also offered one of the funniest comedies in some time, "There's Something About Mary," as well as one of the better Disney animated features, "Mulan," and not one but two movies about menacing space debris in "Armageddon" and "Deep Impact."

Movie-goers responded to the selection kindly. The summer is the biggest on record in box office dollars, unadjusted for inflation, at $2.16 billion from Memorial Day weekend through last weekend, 10 percent ahead of last summer's $1.96 billion, the previous record summer. And this year's figure doesn't include a good chunk of the $139.6 million gross for "Deep Impact," because the film opened two weeks before Memorial Day weekend.

LOSER: The blockbuster. Goodbye "Men in Black," goodbye "The Lost World: Jurassic Park," goodbye "Independence Day." The era of the $200 million-plus super-hit died in the icy waters that claimed "Titanic" — at least for now.

The summer was marked by a series of triples, but no home runs, with high production and marketing costs and profit-sharing deals in which stars cut into profits even for the biggest films. The good, but not stellar, performances of "Godzilla" and "The X-Files" may also have snuffed out any potential sequels.

WINNER: Steven Spielberg. The most successful director in Hollywood history reached an even higher level with "Saving Private Ryan," the epic that reinvented the war movie. Brutally realistic, stunningly photographed and brilliantly acted, "Ryan" is marred only by a sappy plot device and some story lapses in the middle, but otherwise stands out as one of the greatest combat movies ever made. And it's raking in the money: $126 million and growing. The only thing between Spielberg and another armload of Oscars is the armload of Oscars he already won with "Schindler's List."

LOSER: George Clooney, who just can't seem to get his movie career out of the ER, even when he's in a quality film. Clooney shined in "Out of Sight," a nifty Elmore Leonard adaptation, but the movie fizzled at the box office and became another pit-stop in Clooney's trail of tears: "From Dusk Till Dawn," "The Peacemaker," "Batman and Robin" and "One Fine Day."

WINNER: Jerry Bruckheimer. All right, "Armageddon" may have been a noisy, nonsensical testosterone case that made "Deep Impact" look like

'Avengers' has little to offer

Movie takes out the wit and charm of '60s TV show

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

What do you get when you take a witty, bizarre but charming '60s British spy show and take out the wit and charm?

"The Avengers." The popular British television show, which ran from 1966 to 1969 on ABC, presented the adventures of dapper secret agent John Steed (Patrick Macnee) and his series of female sidekicks, the most popular of which was Mrs. Emma Peel (Diana Rigg).

The duo were quite a pair — he dressed in pinstripe suit and bowler hat, carrying a lethal umbrella; she dressed in tight black leather, equally dangerous in the martial arts. For two seasons they handled bizarre cases, sipped champagne and never took anything too seriously.

Like all popular TV shows these days, "The Avengers" was destined to make it to the big screen. If only those involved had taken making a good movie more seriously.

Ralph Fiennes stars as Steed, still dutifully working for The Ministry, run by Mother (John Broadbent) and his second-in-command, Father (Fiona Shaw).

MOVIE REVIEW

Mrs. Peel has been mysteriously recast as a doctor working on a weather control project.

Peel has apparently been caught on tape trying to sabotage the project, and Steed is brought in to investigate.

But the true villain turns out to be Sir August De Wynter (Sean Connery), a former Ministry man in charge of the project, who decides to use his weather control device to demand millions from the country or else he will destroy it by tornadoes and lightning.

Steed and Mrs. Peel join forces to defeat the madman, hopefully in time to make afternoon tea.

There are some talented actors wasted on this film. Connery puts in his most uninspired performance since "Highlander 2." It's almost sad to see him reduced to killing people while dressed in a teddy bear suit.

Fiennes and Thurman lack the charisma of their predecessors and have none of the chemistry together that made the original Steed and Mrs. Peel so interesting. While the TV show wisely kept audiences guessing about the nature of their relationship, the film wastes no time having the couple kiss, and more sparks fly when they're attacked by flying mechanical bugs.

Macnee, the one constant to "The Avengers" in all its incarnations, puts in a brief appearance (sort of) as Ministry researcher Invisible Jones.

Just hearing his voice makes you think about what could have been.

The film also suffers from choppy, at times inexplicable, editing.

Characters get knocked out one second and are back in their flat the next with no explanation. Scenes go nowhere and make no sense.

There are some good special effects, and the characters fit their wardrobes well, but that's not enough to save the world in style.

"The Avengers" is a Warner Bros. film, directed by Jeremiah Chechik and produced by Jerry Weintraub.

Visitors center to be 'unique, magnificent'

By Paul A. Brinkmann
Staff writer

ALTON — A "unique and magnificent" exhibit about the Mississippi River will greet the public at the Melvin Price Locks and Dam Visitors Center, a team of businessmen and educators said Wednesday. "These will be the kind of exhibits you see at the St. Louis Science Center and Zoo," said Jack Jacoby, president of the new Meeting of the Rivers Foundation.

The foundation will work with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which administers the site, in a partnership. The $7 million visitors center is expected to open next spring. The group kicked off a campaign Wednesday to raise $5 million for exhibits.

"We will try to make this something unique and magnificent," Jacoby said.

Jo Ann Harmon, senior vice president at Emerson Electric Co. in St. Louis, joined Jacoby in signing an agreement for the foundation. Signing for the corps was Maj. Gen. Phillip R. Anderson and Col. Thomas J. Hodgini.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, also attended the ceremony.

"I was pleased to play my role in convincing the Congress to come up with funds for this facility," Costello said. "Hopefully this will bring in visitors from all over the country."

He said the exhibits will "illustrate life on the Mississippi, life in the River Bend and many things that make up life in this part of the country."

The group toured the empty visitors center, which includes a large main exhibit hall, a theater, a "distance learning" classroom with Internet access, gift shop and administrative offices.

The foundation will seek $3 million in corporate and private donations; another $2 million will be raised from public sources.

Jacoby said the foundation has only a vague idea of what the exhibits will be but that they will illustrate river history, environment, culture and transportation.

"These will not be static exhibits," Jacoby said. "They will be very interactive, the kinds of things children enjoy."

Education is a major aspect of the foundation's goals. Representatives of school districts and colleges are part of the group.

Anderson said the visitors center will be one of 11 regional centers in the nation and the only full-scale corps' center on the Mississippi.

The foundation already has begun discussing expansion of the visitors center to the 38 acres around the site, but there are no specific plans, Jacoby said.

One idea calls for a working-scale model of the upper Mississippi.

The board includes: Jacoby; Harmon; Don Miller, president of the River Bend Growth Association; Ben D. Allen, attorney and member of the Grafton Business and Tourism Association; Doug Arnold, president of the Greater Alton/Twin Rivers Convention and Visitors Bureau; Dale Chapman, president of Lewis and Clark Community College; David E. Pfeifer, professor of philosophy at Principia College; Phil Schwin, president of Wood River Refining Co.; Walter J. Sharp, managing supervisor at Fleishman-Hillard International Communications; and Carol J. Valenta, vice president of the St. Louis Science Center.

•Movies

"Citizen Kane." But let's face it: The second of the Earth-in-peril films was the top grossing movie of the summer and the biggest in Disney's somewhat checkered live-action history. It even topped "Pretty Woman," and that has to count for something.

Now settled in to working without Don Simpson, producer Bruckheimer has proven that, like his late partner, he knows his audiences, particularly those that are young and male.

LOSERS: MGM/UA and Universal Studios. The once-proud MGM, which produced "The Wizard of Oz" and released "Gone With the Wind," had a disappointment, "Disturbing Behavior," and a turkey, "Dirty Work," as its summer offerings. And while Universal's parent company, Seagram, was off shopping for record labels in Europe, the studio back home released the box office duds "BASEketball" and "Out of Sight."

WINNERS: Paramount and 20th Century Fox. As if these studios didn't make enough from the joint production of "Titanic," whose revenues sloshed into the summer season, they had the best-performing lineup of summer movies, with Paramount's "Deep Impact" and "The Truman Show" and Fox's "Dr. Dolittle," "The X-Files" and "There's Something About Mary."

WINNER: The Farrelly Brothers, whose "There's Something About Mary" proved that there's something about gross-out humor — as long as it's funny. The low-budget comedy from the makers of "Kingpin" and "Dumb and Dumber" had movie-goers howling in spite of themselves. The sleeper hit of the summer found laughs in all the wrong places, from gay sex to a very creative kind of hair gel. Box office: nearly $100 million and holding strong.

LOSER: The other comedies. Even the creative forces behind "Airplane!" couldn't squeeze chuckles out of sports and organized crime. "BASEketball" and "Mafia" fell far short of the gut-splitting humor of "Mary," which was released around the same time. Box office: $6.7 million for "BASEketball," $18.5 million for "Mafia."

WINNERS: Jim Carrey and Eddie Murphy. Carrey's restrained performance (for him, anyway) as the unwitting star of his own 24-hour-TV program in "The Truman Show" generated the first Oscar buzz of the year. It also propelled Carrey into the comedic acting league of Robin Williams and Steve Martin. Murphy proved with "Dr. Dolittle" that last year's transvestite incident didn't ruin his box office appeal.

LOSERS: Art house films. Some of the best movies of the summer played in the art houses, including "The Opposite of Sex," "Smoke Signals," "High Art" and "The Last Days of Disco," and that was the problem: too much quality product. Still, look for Oscar nominations from the actress ranks, particularly Ally Sheedy in "High Art" and possibly Christina Ricci from "The Opposite of Sex."

WINNER: Laurie Strode. Poor girl, it took 20 years to get homicidal psychopath Michael Myers of the original "Halloween" off her back. But in "Halloween: H20," Strode, played by Jamie Lee Curtis, finally did just that, and made a bundle of dough along the way. The modestly budgeted slasher film scored over $40 million at the box office, proving there's still money in blood.

Local bands are focus of TV show

Overland man is instrumental in showcasing area talent on KPLR

By Barbara Ponder
Staff writer

Not all television shows are produced in fancy studios in metropolitan high rises.

Rod Sherrell of Overland has been producing a television show from a high-tech van and his basement studio for more than two years.

"We are set up with 24-track audio capability and we can multi-switch up to eight cameras," Sherrell said. "The truck allows us to go to the venue and run our snake in without having to spend hours and hours setting up all the equipment."

Among other projects, Sherrell's company, Remote Control, produces MidCoast Mania, a one-half hour show featuring local musicians.

The show, which is paid programming, recently quit airing on KPLR-TV (Channel 11) in July but Sherrell plans to begin broadcasting again Sept. 26 in a 1:35 a.m. time slot on KDNL-TV (Channel 30).

"Right now I have about 50 percent of the advertisers I need so I'm confident I'll go

"Jazz, blues, you name it — it's all here. There's 230-250 bands you can go see any night of the week. It's sad to say some of the very best bands I've ever heard are playing to 20 or 30 people."

ahead with it . . .," Sherrell said. "KDNL is also a better match to our demographic audience. Any market trying to reach 13- to 30-year-old audience can find them watching our show."

Sherrell said MidCoast Mania, while airing on KPLR, received good Nielsen ratings, reached a high of 100,000 viewers and often placed No. 1 in its early morning time slot.

The show grew out of Remote Control's live audio recordings of local bands from its studio-equipped van.

"We needed to be isolated (from the live sound) but that meant we couldn't see so we bought a camera basically for surveillance," Sherrell said.

"And the very first band aske

if we could give them a copy of the tape."

Almost overnight, Sherrell's crew was in the video business and had accumulated a large catalog of local music.

The show originally aired as "Spotlight Video" from 1991 to 1997. In 1995, the show was renamed "MidCoast Mania" and moved to KPLR with a new host, Matt Myers of Richmond Heights.

"The best American music has always come from the Midwest and they (Midwest musicians) have to leave to get their fame and fortune," Sherrell said. "And we thought it would be great if they could get the exposure here."

Andrew John of the Italian Hill neighborhood of south St.

Louis has appeared several times on the show.

"It's helped me get my music to more people than it normally would get to," John said. "A lot of people see me on the streets and will say they saw me on MidCoast Mania — I mean strangers, not just my friends."

Myers sometimes interviews musicians on the show. That training is invaluable, Sherrell said.

"They get to look at it themselves and say, 'If I'm ever on MTV, I'll never say that,'" Sherrell said.

The show features bands that perform original "modern" music including rock and roll, rap, country and jazz.

"We'd like to see it happen where people can appreciate all forms of music," Sherrell said. "I think there is truly something within every genre that you can like. I used to say, 'I don't like rap,' but I have since heard some rap tunes that I like."

In addition to Sherrell and Myers, Cat Cacciatore of Wildwood and Ryan Schlueter of West Alton complete the show's crew

"Everyone on our crew does at least 10 jobs," Sherrell said. "If we were a NBC affiliate we would probably have about 10 or 15 people doing what we're doing."

Schlueter, Sherrell's 17-year-old nephew, maintains the show's website and has been shooting camera since age 11. Schlueter is well on his way to a career in video and audio production.

"I don't think I could ever get away from it," Schlueter said. "I have a big, long resume now with all the road trips and stuff we've done."

The crew has shot video at night clubs throughout the United States including New York, Los Angeles and Nashville. However, the show continues to focus on the region from Chicago to New Orleans, and primarily on St. Louis.

Sherrell hopes that one day the show will reach international syndication.

"I would like to see MidCoast Mania be a format for a television revolution — where every major market has their own (local) MidCoast Mania," Sherrell said.

If there is one downside to Sherrell's work, it would be his realization that St. Louisans simply fail to appreciate the variety and quality of music at their doorsteps.

"Jazz, blues, you name it — it's all here," Sherrell said. "There's 230 to 250 bands you can go see any night of the week. It's sad to say some of the very best bands I've ever heard are playing to 20 or 30 people."

For more information about MidCoast Mania, check its website at www.midcoastmania.com.

Movies still deal with war

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Correspondent

As I understand it, there are a dozen or so war movies coming down the pike from Hollywood over the next year. I would doubt the upcoming war flicks will be as good as "Saving Private Ryan." However, I am interested in seeing the remake of "The Thin Red Line," starring Sean Penn and George Clooney, among others, that is scheduled to be released in December.

And while "Saving Private Ryan" is a terrific movie, I do not rate it as the greatest film about war ever made, as a number of critics have done. I still feel "Platoon" is the top war flick, with "Apocalypse Now" close behind.

I give "Saving Private Ryan" many points for its realistic feel. However, it did not grip me the way "Platoon" did. "Platoon" not only shows the horrors of battle, but the emotional impacts of dealing with death.

Another extraordinary war flick is "The Deer Hunter," which came out in 1978 when I was in high school. I remember seeing the movie with some friends and the group of us talking about how lucky we had been to have been too young for military service during the Vietnam War.

John Wayne and Sylvester Stallone have made numerous entertaining war movies, but their characters were larger than life. To me, the great war pictures have dealt with the complexities of war along with the heroism.

For this week's trivia quiz, the topic is war flicks.

1. "Sergeant York" is set during which war?

2. Denzel Washington won his Best Supporting Actor Oscar for his role in which film?

3. Who plays Gen. Omar Bradley in "Patton"?

4. Which Clint Eastwood film is about the U.S. invasion of Grenada?

on $9 million warehouse
By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

A longtime economic in the Tri-Cities area celebrated progress in the future Wednesday as Co. broke ground for newest venture.
On a mild Wednesday morning, Lanier Co., construction and various officials symbolically ground for Lanier's new project in the North Industrial Park on Hill Lanier, based in the area with business space nationwide, is constructing a $9 million warehouse in its existing facility in Northgate. It will employ a minimum of 60 people, 43,000 pallet positions holding tons of merchandise, the 350,000-square-foot state-of-the-art distribution center.

SIUE series sets season memberships

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's Arts & Issues series, soon to begin its 14th annual season, recently achieved a new milestone when it surpassed its old record of season memberships. The series usually sells around 150 season memberships; that number recently reached 182.

An Arts & Issues season membership provides tickets to all seven events, discounts off individual ticket prices, advance ticket exchange privileges and invitations to artists' and speakers' receptions.

Season memberships for the Arts & Issues series, which this year brings the Preservation Hall Jazz Band and former U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop to campus, are now on sale, offering a discount for general admission.

The cost of a season membership for the seven-program series is $66, $33 for students.

For information, or for a free brochure outlining all the events in the upcoming Arts & Issues season, call 650-2626; or write to Arts & Issues, SIUE, Edwardsville, 62026-1083.

•Trivia

- Who plays the two rival sergeants in "Platoon?"
- Who plays Hawkeye in the movie "MASH?"
- Who plays the German spy in "The Eye of the Needle," which is set during World War II?
- "To Hell and Back" stars which real-life World War II hero?
- "Braveheart" is the story of which hero from Scottish history?
- Of Charles Bronson, George Kennedy, Clint Walker, James Coburn and Jim Brown, which one was NOT in "The Dirty Dozen?"
- Answers: 1. World War I. 2. "Glory," which is about the Civil War. 3. Karl Malden. 4. "Heartbreak Ridge." 5. Willem Dafoe and Tom Berenger. 6. Donald Sutherland. 7. Again, the answer is Donald Sutherland in a much different part. 8. Audie Murphy. 9. William Wallace. 10. Coburn.
- Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Trivia Coast-To-Coast Show" from 8 to 11 p.m. Sundays on Radio KMOX-AM (1120)

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, AUG. 27

The moon enters Scorpio this afternoon, and a feeling of mystery and intrigue soon follows. Give in to Scorpio's thrill, and keep a secret by doing something no one can ever know about. Get yourself prepared for an intense encounter and extreme emotions when someone from your past resurfaces.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 27). Be your creative self, and utilize your compassion in overcoming adversity. Be sure to plan out your business strategy before Oct. 1 — going over your ideas with others to help avoid rash behavior will net results by the new year. Lovers will find your hard work sexy, especially a Capricorn or Taurus. Singles hook up in November and February for long-term love.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Your ideas will only materialize if you give them greater respect. Never downplay your intelligence or creativity, even to yourself. Furthering your education increases your earning power.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Lovers are impressed with material displays. Whoever told you not to have an opposing view was threatened by your potential. Mistakes in the world of money will eventually help you unlock the door to wealth.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Someone in charge has deeply ingrained habits that are not worth fighting. Your co-workers look to you for leadership. Seek out competition. You are at your best when challenged.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). If you feel you weren't born with good judgment, just remember it's only attained through experience. Drama among your inner circle of friends leads to an investment plan. You may be convinced of erroneous information.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Business is good (you feel you have the Midas touch), but you should still refrain from buying anything on credit. Hanging out with people who have the ability to excel will make your life infinitely better. Cancer love is lucky.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Avoid greed; steady, progressive income is a more realistic way to the top. If you get into a bind this afternoon, as many Virgos will, call upon one who served you well in the past. A family name is behind you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Your cautious optimism helps you avoid monetary risks. Your future happiness does not

Caseyville reunion set

The graduates of the 1952 eighth grade class of Caseyville Grade School will hold their first reunion at noon Sunday, Aug. 30, at the Caseyville Park Pavilion.

Everyone is invited to bring their spouses and families. Others who may have attended grade school during that period of time are most welcome to attend this event. All are asked to bring their own lunch and beverage in an effort to keep preparations simple.

Bob Stephens, the official organizer of the reunion, can be reached at 344-8984. Please contact him if you have questions.

Two teachers, Edna Kampmeier and Thelma Koblitz, have been invited to attend. Any teacher from Caseyville School would be most welcome.

•Horoscope -

hinge on wealth. Trust your friends; you're in good hands tonight. Entertaining on the town is a hit - if you make plans and reservations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You've got a way with the opposite sex now and are extremely popular. A blend of varying personalities makes the perfect team - try not to spend time only with those like you. Spiritual ideas are new and exciting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Plan carefully. What you decide early in the day affects your entire weekend. Social influences are not necessarily healthy for you. A new investment opportunity smacks of snake oil.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Your judgment is keen. Confidence comes from doing, not planning and wishing. Singles find love amongst old friends. The gambler in you may be holding an ace or two. An Aries is lucky for you to know.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). A broken promise is not quickly swept under the rug. Own up to your commitments. Stop following monetary paths charted for you long ago. Diversify, and give room for a few high-risk forays.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You are the apple of someone's eye and can rest assured of your relationship's status. Clean house emotionally. Overreacting wastes valuable energy. Ridding yourself of obsolete investments uncovers hidden wealth.

ENTERTAINMENT

De Palma stays the course

Turn that second "9" upside down on this year's calendar. It could well read 1968 for Brian De Palma.

That's because, after 30 years, much remains the same for the director: films infused with political undertones, stories told from different points of view, with flashy jump cuts, tracking shots, split screens — and battles against the ratings board.

Back then, in 1968, he made "Murder à la Mod" from three perspectives. The film came two years after he directed his feature debut, "The Wedding Party," starring then newcomers Jill Clayburgh and Robert De Niro, which examined Vietnam War era politics and displayed cinematic pyrotechnics.

De Palma's newest movie, "Snake Eyes," stars Nicolas Cage as a corrupt police detective who investigates the murder of the Secretary of Defense during a heavyweight fight in Atlantic City. The movie reconstructs the crime from three witnesses' viewpoints. It opens with a continuous 20-minute Steadicam shot following Cage and delves into corruption among defense contractors.

"I'm always commenting on the time I live in," says De Palma, citing "Scarface" (1983) and its focus on the Columbian drug world, and "Hi, Mom!" (1970), which starred De Niro as a Vietnam vet who wants to make a "peep show" art film. The ethical dilemmas of the protagonists in such works as "Blow Out" and "Casualties of War" were sculpted by paranoia and power politics. "I'm just amazed at what I see going on in front of me all the time and it all gets into your work all the time."

What gets into De Palma's work, though, has often been deemed strong stuff by the Motion Picture Association of America, which rates movies. He's been a vocal critic of those ratings ever since his counterintelligence comedy "Greetings in 1968" and "Dionysus in '69" were given X ratings (now NC-17).

Contractually obligated to make a PG-13 film for Paramount Pictures, De Palma was incensed when the MPAA slapped an R rating on "Snake Eyes." He made some changes because even he thought a scene in which Cage takes a beating was too gruesome. But the ratings

Area man is Robin Hood at Six Flags

Dennis Saldana performs in 25 shows a week at amusement park

By Cheryl A. Moody
Staff writer

When he's at his residence in Fairview Heights, he's known as Dennis Saldana. But at work, he's known by all as Robin Hood.

This is the third season for the 35-year-old Saldana to be cast as Robin Hood at Six Flags in Eureka in the show called "Robin Hood: Siege at Nottingham."

Saldana performs as Robin Hood five days a week, five shows each day. He jumps, leaps, swings on ropes and even does some sword fighting. Are the swords real? You bet!

In fact, last year, Saldana was accidentally stabbed in the hand during one of those staged sword fights. Those swords seem to cause troubles in other ways, too.

During one scene, when Saldana jumped over a wall to save the love of his life — Marion — he accidentally caught a barrel full of swords, did a somersault and ended up sprawled out on his back.

Saldana said that when he and the sheriff of Nottingham engaged in a sword fight, they were scrambling around on stage trying to find their swords that had been flung all over the place.

Flying through the air on swinging ropes can be challenging, too. During another incident, Saldana said the rope he was swinging on snapped from the tower and sent him flying into the stage left staircase.

So why does Saldana return to Six Flags each year, hoping to once again be cast as Robin Hood?

"It's the kids," Saldana said enthusiastically. "They're the greatest! I love those kids and the chance to be able to get paid for working with good friends — it's the people I love."

And why do people visiting Six Flags keep returning to watch the Robin Hood show one more time?

"It's very popular with the audience," Saldana said. "There are a lot of people who come through and say that every year they come back and every year it gets better."

While Saldana is busy giving out autographs, those watching the show are busy giving him candy, flowers, poems, pictures and even videos of his performance.

To keep up with the stunts he performs during the show, Saldana works out.

"I notice a difference in my ability to do the show when I don't work out," Saldana said.

Teaching gymnastics, cheerleading and tumbling at the Midwest Twisters in O'Fallon helps Saldana keep physically fit. Whenever time allows, Saldana is on staff at Midwest Twisters teaching children and teens of all ages.

During his other wakeful moments, Saldana stays busy auditioning and acting with other theatrical groups and even performing smaller parts for television.

This October, Saldana can be seen in the mini-series, "A Will of Their Own," when he portrays a World War II captain. The scene was filmed in Forest Park where Saldana worked closely with movie actress Leah Thompson.

Saldana worked again with Thompson in June, playing the part of a Mexican migrant farmer, during a film-shoot at Eckert's Orchards.

Just this week, Saldana was called back to audition for a part in a play called "The Beckoning Torch," being produced by a St. Louis theatrical organization.

He is also a board member of the Collinsville Area Theatrical Society. The society just finished performing the musical "Grease" and is preparing to present "A Street Car Named Desire" this fall.

As if acting, being a stuntman and teaching isn't enough, Saldana also choreographs. In fact, the last two years, he assisted in the choreography of Robin Hood.

So just when did Saldana get his start in his acting endeavors? It all started at the age of six when he portrayed a hunter in the story of Rumpelstiltskin.

Then, at the age of 12, he experienced his first professional acting experience, when he earned a part in a March of Dimes commercial.

And just what are Saldana's future goals?

"Dennis just wants to work," Saldana said.

He also hopes to turn young children on to Shakespeare when he and Todd Gillenardo, the sheriff of Nottingham, form a children's touring theatrical company that will be loosely based on Shakespeare.

•De Palma

board didn't budge.

"Then I said, 'Guys, I can't change the movie any more,' ... and the studio stood up for me," De Palma says.

Blood and guts have never fazed De Palma, whose commercial breakthrough was the memorably bloody "Carrie" in 1976. As a teen-ager growing up in Philadelphia, he would watch his father — an orthopedic surgeon — operate on bones, install artificial femurs and amputate legs.

De Palma, 57, has over the years drawn harsh reactions not only from the ratings board but from some critics and feminists. And there's little middle ground about him.

While admirers think he's an inventive and daring stylist, his detractors have assailed his films as ultraviolent, misogynistic and derivative to the point of plagiarism.

De Palma has always acknowledged the influence of Alfred Hitchcock and others on his work, and it has been years since he filmed anyone being chain-sawed to death in a shower or a woman getting killed with a huge power drill.

"The times have changed," he says.

"Mission: Impossible," his hit movie two years ago, didn't contain the bloodiness or eroticism of his earlier works.

Still, he doesn't repudiate such films as "Dressed to Kill" and "Body Double," nor does he apologize for what he sees as the engaging depiction of damsels in distress.
